

ASSAULTS MODERN TROTS AND TANGOS

Dances of To-Day Without Single Redeeming Feature, Says Rev. Frank L. Wells.

WALTZ HAD BRAZEN ORIGIN

Born on Immoral Viennese Stage, and at First Banned by the Authorities.

"The tango, like all Gaul, is divided into three parts," said Rev. Frank L. Wells, pastor of the Broad Street Methodist Church, last night, quoting a recent critic of the modern dance. "It is a small part athletic, a still smaller part esthetic, and by far the largest part just sensual."

From the best information that he had been able to obtain, said the preacher, it appears that the tango originated in an unsavory quarter of Buenos Aires. The other ultra-modern dances of the day, according to Mr. Wells, have family trees which are equally as questionable. "The tango to-day, and that have even been adopted by so-called polite society," he said, "once delighted vulgar audiences among the natives of Central America, and have come down to us variously through the vicious strata in San Francisco and Paris, and through the faded elements in better circles that are always ready to accept anything that promises a new thrill."

Assaults Modern Dance. Mr. Wells devoted his evening sermon to an inquiry into the character of the waltz, which he ascribed a brazen birth in December, 1857, on a Viennese stage not overburdened with morality. This form of dance, he said, was regarded at that time as so shockingly vulgar that the authorities placed a ban upon it, and it was never mentioned in polite society.

It was not until Paris had accepted the waltz, said Mr. Wells, that the polite world, always accepting the dictates of the French capital without question, adopted in the United States in vogue in some communities, he said, had an origin and early life equally as unsavory.

Not only the vulgar modern dance, but the whole institution of dancing, including even those forms of it that are generally accepted as harmless, fell under Mr. Wells's criticism. Viewed from every possible angle, he said, modern dancing is calculated to add nothing to a person's development esthetically, spiritually or morally, and nothing to his usefulness to his fellow-beings and to God.

Dancing as Exercise. It is urged by some of its votaries, said the minister, that dancing is a healthful physical exercise. So far from being that, he said, it violated all the laws of hygiene by requiring this exercise to be taken late at night and in the early hours of the morning, in overheated rooms and while incumbered with garments calculated to impede rather than encourage freedom of motion.

The claim that dancing is a kind of esthetic entertainment, especially aroused the preacher's criticism.

"It is in great part responsible for the unprincipled and almost unbridled indulgence of the social life of to-day. So far from being a harmless pastime, as another school of its votaries assert, the modern dance in its tendencies and results is without doubt a social poison, and is dangerous to social purity."

It is based on the commingling of the sexes, and is linked in history with the story of social ruin."

Denunciations. The teachers of dancing themselves, said Mr. Wells, have become ashamed of their ill-bred progeny, and have declared war against the rag dances of the day. At a recent convention of dancing instructors held in New York, he said, one speaker warned his hearers that the tango and its fellow-shinners were dragging what was once an art down to the level of the gutter.

The contention that dancing has a religious foundation, said the preacher, was the most fantastic of all. Those who make this claim point to passages in the Bible which in which allusions are made to the dance and dancing.

There is no instance in the Bible, said Mr. Wells, in which the sexes are spoken of as dancing together. Always dancing with men or women, references that he recalled, said Mr. Wells, were in Job, where the dance was mentioned in a complimentary manner, and in the scriptural passage which describes Solomon's dance before Herod.

Policemen Tamer and Smith Have Exciting Time With Crack-Shooters

In a wild and exciting chase through the city, Policemen Tamer and Smith, who are alleged to have been indulging in that favorite pastime, crack-shooting, were arrested last night by Policemen Tamer and Smith at 212 West Duval Street.

When the officers appeared on the scene lights went out, lamps crashed to the floor, windows were smashed and the negroes tried vainly to jump through them, furniture was overturned, and there was a general melee. The wild and excited negroes made up in a corner of the room in which they had been playing, and were held there until the arrival of the patrol automobile.

CONFERENCE ON CURRENCY BILL

Call Issued for Meeting of Virginia Bankers in Richmond on September 27.

FAVOR CHICAGO AMENDMENTS

Executive Council Indorses Radical Changes Proposed by Big Western Conference.

Recent developments in the currency reform movement have caused the executive council of the Virginia Bankers' Association to issue a call for a special meeting of the State association to be held in Richmond on September 27, to take action on the Owen-Glass money reform measure now pending before Congress. In the opinion of State officers, an emergency exists demanding the attention of the association.

The call for a State conference was issued by the executive council, which held a special meeting at the Jefferson Hotel on Saturday night. Joseph H. Hurl, of Staunton, president of the Virginia Bankers' Association, presided, and the attendance included practically the entire membership of the council.

Endorse Chicago Meeting. The executive council assembled in response to a call issued by President Hurl for a special meeting to consider the Owen-Glass currency bill. The action was summed up in a resolution, unanimously adopted, indorsing the amendments to the measure proposed by the bankers' conference held on August 23 at Chicago.

For the purpose of submitting this resolution to the whole association for its adoption, the council voted to call a meeting of the State association. The executive council is, under the constitution of the organization, given full authority to act as between annual meetings, but in this case it was felt that the business was of too great moment to be disposed of without the ratification of the whole association.

The Chicago amendments, indorsed in full by the executive council, demand the establishment of one central Federal reserve bank instead of twelve, as provided for by the Owen-Glass bill; provide changes designed to give the bankers of the country a voice in naming the reserve board of control, and suggest important changes in the proposed reciprocal relations between the Federal and State and Federal reserve banks.

Opposed by Glass. The action of the executive council of the Virginia Bankers' Association in endorsing the Chicago amendments derives additional State interest in view of the long statement made public last Sunday by Congressman Carter Glass, in which he predicted that the Chicago amendments will be rejected. Mr. Glass questioned the extent to which the Chicago conference represented the banking mind of the country, and stated that each of the amendments suggested by the Chicago bankers had been disposed of by the Committee on Banking and Currency.

The letter files of the Banking and Currency Committee, said Mr. Glass, contained a mass of correspondence from bankers indorsing the administration bill without qualification. "Indeed, until some of the big banks of the reserve and central reserve cities have been systematically campaigned against the bill among the country correspondents," said Mr. Glass, "approval of the measure was quite general."

Questions June Action. An interesting divergence of opinion has arisen as to the binding quality of the resolution passed by the Virginia Bankers' Association at its annual convention last June at Old Point Comfort. The question was raised by the Chicago amendments, which were adopted at its meeting Saturday night to express the association's approval of the Owen-Glass bill, only in so far as it was explained to the body that day by Senator Owen.

The full provisions of the bill, at the time the resolution was adopted, were not generally known. It was this contention, which was the basis of the bill, that the resolution was adopted to frame a new resolution, indorsing the amendments proposed at Chicago, and to call for another State conference. The resolution requested the State representatives in Congress to further the reforms therein suggested.

Old Point Resolution. The resolution adopted unanimously by the bankers in annual session at Old Point Comfort, June 26, reads: "Having heard the very able and concrete explanation of the proposed banking and currency measure establishing reserve banks and providing an elastic currency, the United States Treasury notes, the members of the Virginia Bankers' Association, in annual meeting, hereby heartily indorse the principles contained therein, and extend our congratulations to Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States, and to Senator Robert L. Owen, and Representative Carter Glass, chairman, respectively, of the Banking and Currency Committee of the Senate and House of Representatives, all of whom were born in Old Virginia."

Members Present. The meeting of the executive council Saturday night was attended by Joseph M. Hurl, president of the association; C. H. Tiffany, Warrenton, Tex.; H. McAdams, Richmond; Julian H. Hill, Richmond; Walker Scott, Farmville; R. Taylor, Burke, Alexandria; S. L. Barrow, Blackstone; R. E. Jordan, South Boston; W. R. Vest, Newport News; T. P. Berry, Harrisonburg; G. E. Bland, Staunton; J. W. Bell, Albemarle; J. J. Smith, Richmond; J. J. Scott, Bedford City; John M. Allen, Jr., Richmond; Nelson Groome, Hampton; Henry Preston, Tazewell; J. D. Tucker and Tucker Watkins, South Boston; and George Bryan, Richmond, attorney for the Virginia Bankers' Association.

MAYOR DISCUSSES CITY FIRE HAZARD

Would Send Local Delegation to Philadelphia Fire Prevention Conference.

DISTRIBUTION IS AT FAULT

Poor Water System Exposes Richmond to Danger of Hot Springs Catastrophe.

Mayor Ainslie has received an invitation from the Philadelphia Fire Prevention Commission, through its chairman, Powell Evans, to attend the National Fire Prevention Conference, which will be held in that city October 13 to 18, inclusive. The subject is one in which the Mayor is deeply interested, and which has received his attention in his annual report.

"Richmond should be represented at this conference by a delegation of such character as would insure benefits to the city from their attendance," said Mayor Ainslie, last night, discussing the meeting and its object. "It is far better not to hear the fire bell at all than to be able to boast of fine work in extinguishing a fire."

"Every fire causes a net loss to somebody, and too frequently to those least able to bear it. It is our plain duty to learn how fires may be prevented and to give Richmond the benefit of that knowledge."

Recommended Investigation. Both in his annual message and in a communication to the Council, the Mayor has recommended an investigation of the city's water distribution system and its improvement, with the view of reducing the fire hazard. The communication to the Council recommended the appointment of a committee from that body to act in conjunction with a committee from the Board of Fire Commissioners in probing the situation under the advice of a skilled expert.

The message was sent by the Council to the Committee on Public Properties and Utilities. This committee referred the matter to a subcommittee, which has so far failed to make a report. The communication has been pending without action for several months.

Hot Springs an Example. "The catastrophe at Hot Springs," said the Mayor, "is only an example of what may happen to Richmond any time. The fire started there in a negro cabin and soon burned its way through an area a mile in length and six or seven miles wide. The cause was a case of faulty water distribution and an inadequate system of mains. In several sections of this city conditions, I am informed, are no better."

"Fire is one of the great economic problems of the present day in America. Competent opinion is to the effect that one-half of the total American fire waste of life and property arises from carelessness, ignorance and shiftlessness. According to Franklin H. Wentworth, of Boston, a leading American authority, we are far behind European countries as far as preventing and reducing fire waste are concerned. We burn property in this country at the rate of $20,000 an hour from one year's end to the other without seriously thinking about it."

Glasgow and Richmond. "The city of Glasgow, Scotland," said the Mayor, "a town of Boston's size, had a fire loss last year of $25,000,000, while Richmond's loss was $245,000. Glasgow's per capita loss was about 45 cents, while ours was $2.25. The average per capita loss in cities in the United States last year was $2.55, while the average in the cities of England of over 40,000 population was 54 cents."

Berlin and Chicago are approximately of the same size. The fire loss of the German city last year was $175,000—slightly more than half of Richmond's loss. Chicago's loss was $5,000,000."

Hold Man for Chesterfield Police. Colonel Farrell, colored, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of breaking into a house on Chesterfield County road, where he was charged with holding a man for the Chesterfield Police.

Took Horse Without Permission. William Massie, colored, was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging him with taking a horse and carriage belonging to B. C. Outlaw without the owner's permission and driving it around for several hours. He was taken to the Third Station, where he will be held for trial before Justice H. A. Maurice.

Young Woman Beaten. U. M. Bland, forty-three years old, a salesman, was arrested on a warrant charging him with beating Miss Ada Mitchell. He was taken into custody by Sergeant Shoemaker and Policeman Voltz. He was bailed.

W. C. T. U. Meeting. The Ella W. Wood, W. C. T. U. will meet at 217 West Main Street, on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock to begin the fall work. All members and those interested in temperance work are invited.

Brooke Into Crematory. James White, colored, was arrested yesterday by Detective Sergeant Atkinson and Kregel on a charge of breaking into the City Crematory office, at the foot of St. Peter Street, and stealing a revolver belonging to a man named Colka. White was locked up in the Second Police Station.

SUICIDE THEORY QUICKLY UPSET

Coroner Taylor Finds That William H. Peacock Died of Apoplexy.

DID NOT SWALLOW POISON

Members of Family and Doctors First Thought Man Had Killed Himself.

Though it was firmly believed at the time, and so stated by the family, that William H. Peacock, of 3517 Williamsburg Avenue, committed suicide Saturday night by swallowing quicksilver and carbolic acid, examination yesterday morning by Coroner Taylor proved infallibly that the man died of apoplexy.

Immediately upon beginning his work of examination, Coroner Taylor noticed that there were no burns about the mouth or lips, and could not detect any odor of carbolic acid. Undertaker Woody also stated that he had not detected any signs of carbolic acid poisoning, and Mrs. Peacock said that when she rushed to her husband's side she, too, failed to detect that odor.

Further inquiry developed the fact that the empty vial found near the dead man's side had been emptied by the family, and that the family, which had been forgotten in the excitement of the moment, and quicksilver, Coroner Taylor said, even though taken in large doses, does not keep for two or three days. It is often used in medicine, he said.

All Indications That Way. Coroner Taylor said that the indications might have been taken for those of attempt at suicide, especially when taken with the fact that Peacock had been in ill health and had been dependent. The presence of the empty vial and the stertorous breathing of Peacock led members of the family to believe that he had swallowed the poison, and when they telephoned to the City Hospital for assistance it was said to be a case of carbolic acid poisoning. When Dr. M. E. Barreiros arrived he was told again that it was a case of carbolic acid poisoning, and he proceeded at once with the usual treatment, losing no time by asking for a physician.

Peacock died on the way to the City Hospital, as he was being rushed there in an automobile belonging to P. H. Blaska. Blaska drove the car at breakneck speed through the streets, but Peacock died just as he turned the machine into Fifth Street from Main.

Coroner Taylor said last night that symptoms shown by Peacock, except those of carbolic acid poisoning, might have been taken for those of carbolic acid poisoning.

No Acid in the House. But it was found afterwards that there was none of the acid in the house, and there was only a small amount of quicksilver in the bottle found on the dresser, which, if it had been taken, could not have ended fatal. Coroner Taylor was informed that Peacock carried a small bottle of carbolic acid in his room, and that he had been using it for some time.

Peacock, however, that it is improbable that Peacock could have been so careless as to leave the bottle in the house, and that he was struck with apoplexy. On the death certificate he put the cause down as "probable apoplexy."

FIND OWNERLESS AUTO

After it had been left standing in front of 114 West Franklin Street for three days, an automobile numbered 448 was removed Saturday by the police. The car was found in the garage at 203 North Bellvue Street.

The list of published automobile owners showed that the car belonged originally to a man in South Boston, and that it had been stolen. The car was found in the garage at 203 North Bellvue Street.

Borrowed Car for Joy Ride. Bent evidently on obtaining a joy ride free of charge, some one entered John Alsop's garage at 215 West Main Street last night Saturday night and took out his car and used it during the night. It was returned, and Mr. Alsop's attention was called to the car by the fact that one of the fenders was bent.

Raid Alleged Gambling House. Emmanual Willis and seven other negroes were arrested early yesterday morning in a raid by Sergeant Neisz and Policemen Hulcher and Whitlock. The raid was made at 314 Brook Avenue, where it is alleged they were gambling. Willis was charged with running the resort.

Children Help Ice Mission. The Ice Mission desires to acknowledge with thanks the following donations: From the Sunshine Club, of Richmond, $7.15; from a mission Sunday school of Blackstone, Va., $14.

SPOTLIGHT TURNS ON UNION STATION

Controversy to Receive Last Public Airing at Meeting Thursday Night.

COMMITTEE SPEAKS CHARILY, BUT MEMBERS REGARD UNITED REPORT AS UNLIKELY.

With the annexation question out of the way, as far as committee inquiries are concerned, the spotlight shifts this week to the Union Station problem, which has occupied the attention of a special Council committee since last spring. The final public hearing in the matter will take place at 8 o'clock next Thursday night in the Council Chamber.

The committee has not met in more than a month. At the last meeting it was announced that the taking of evidence would be at its next meeting, when one considers that he has been in a lunatic asylum so many years and thrown constantly in contact with those whose minds are actually diseased. He has stood more than most men could stand, and he still preserves his mental balance. He slew Stanford White in a peculiar way, perhaps, but that was not a crime, as he would not have been convicted, and if he were tried here now as to his mentality by a jury of disinterested men he would be discharged at once from custody.

Members Noncommittal. Members of the Union Station committee are chary in the expression of their views in advance of the meeting. In recent interviews with the committee members, they have all admitted that the probability of a united report in favor of the Union Station on the Main Street site, unless new evidence at the meeting should be introduced, is very remote. The committee is composed of James T. Pollock, chairman; Barton H. Grundy, James J. Pollard, G. K. Pollard, C. A. Seaton, W. H. Adams, and R. L. Peters.

Whatever the committee's report, it will be purely advisory, and in no way mandatory. It was announced yesterday that the committee will meet at 8 o'clock next Thursday night in the Council Chamber.

But a Lot of People Are Crazy About Getting His Money, Says Dr. Taylor.

If Coroner William H. Taylor had his way—and he is like a lot of others in that respect—Harry Kendall Thaw would be a free man to-day. "Thaw is not crazy," said Dr. Taylor last night. "He is a little eccentric, but the wonder is that he is not a maniac. The very fact that his mentality is still acute is, to my mind, sufficient evidence that his mind is stable, when one considers that he has been in a lunatic asylum so many years and thrown constantly in contact with those whose minds are actually diseased. He has stood more than most men could stand, and he still preserves his mental balance. He slew Stanford White in a peculiar way, perhaps, but that was not a crime, as he would not have been convicted, and if he were tried here now as to his mentality by a jury of disinterested men he would be discharged at once from custody."

As for the alienists, I take as much stock in them as I do in votes for women. They decide according to what is footing the bill. Thaw can get the alienists to say he is perfectly sane, and Jerome can get them to say that he is insane—a dangerous paranoiac. Anybody with a little common sense, without all these new-fangled theories, can tell whether a man is sane or not, and in my opinion Thaw has given no indications of insanity. They make a man crazy, as he says they intend to do, but he is not crazy now. A lot of people are crazy about getting his money, and that is where most of the insanity is.

When Thaw killed Stanford White he killed an enemy to society, and no harm to do. He had good reason to slay the man who had caused the downfall of his wife, but he killed a big man, and Jerome got busy. The pickpockets were good as long as Thaw was in Matteawan, the alienists were in Matteawan, and the lawyers will have an easy time making their living. He isn't crazy. He has too much money."
